ChargeUp Europe Secretary General Lucie Mattera commented on the Board elections:

“Our Board members from across the EV charging value chain look forward to delivering a consumer-centric, open-market model for EV charging infrastructure across all of Europe. In the past year we have seen a robust growth of membership showing the need for a strong representation and advocacy efforts to address existing barriers, from grid connections to lack of standards. I look forward to working with the new Board and our membership towards the continued rapid deployment of charging infrastructure in Europe and a seamless charging experience for all EV drivers.”
